Which of Rob's points resonated with you personally the most.

1. Become aware of the harvest
2. Understand the time of the harvest is NOW
3. Accept there is a cost to harvesting.
4. Experience the satisfaction harvesting brings
5. Realize the harvest is everywhere.

Which of those points do you think the church (DBIC, or American Church, or Christianity in general) needs to hear?

What have you left behind in following Jesus (good and bad)?

If doing the Father's will and continuing to do it until it is complete is Jesus' food (and should be our food), how hungry are you?

To whom have you said "Come and See" to recently? How did you say it? (both what did you say and how did you say it)

To whom have you shared/acknowledged your failures with so they could know and follow Jesus? (.29 and .39)

What boundary are you ready or willing to cross to so some may know and follow Jesus?

Share and Prayer

It may be helpful to spend some intentional time on repentance.
